

Performance - senior / manager role

Having scooped multiple awards in Asset Management ceremonies this year, our Client is currently riding the crest of a wave and undergoing a period of real success, both with Fund Performance and staff satisfaction.

Their modern approach to Asset Allocation and Product Development has resulted in an exciting breadth of Investments that have stood firm during the recent market uncertainties, and look set to lead the market in diversity. They are fast becoming a dedicated Derivative House, with almost everything they work with involving Derivative products.

This particular role will involve overseeing a small team of Performance Analysts, which despite their small number serves a wide area of the business; from IT, Projects and Business Analysis, through to more traditional Performance analysis.

A considerable percentage of the funds you will be working on contain complex Derivative instruments, so would represent a good opportunity to learn more about these. You would be working in tandem with the Head of department on upcoming projects, including the implementation of a new Attribution system in the forthcoming months.

In the longer term, you will be trusted to encourage the ongoing development of Business and Performance Analysis both within the department and internally with other areas. This represents a great opportunity for those with a minimum of two/three years experience looking to take the next step of their career and work with a range of Products, Funds and taking in a wider view of the business as a whole.
